NEARING THE FATAL DAY

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher Explains His "Bread and Water" Doctrine.

Startling Number of Illegal Registrations in Brooklyn and New York.

A Mass in Louisiana, Mass and Cleveland's Movements.

New York, Nov. 3.—The broad thoroughfare that forms the lower part of Wall street was blocked Friday afternoon by a large multitude who went up frequent cheers for Cleveland and Hendricks. Fully 6,000 persons joined in this demonstration which was conducted by the down town Merchants' Cleveland Club. The main stand stood just above South street and faced west. The other stand was at the corner of Wall and Water streets. Each structure was enveloped in red, white and blue bunting. It was raining slightly. In front of the main stand was the legend, "Any rain but the reign of monarchy at the moment of this election." The enthusiasm of the crowd and soon after 3 o'clock hearty cheers were heard all along Wall street as a gaily decorated delegation from the Cleveland Club marched down from Broad street. The breakers were given a place directly in front of the main stand. One of the down town business interests was represented in the crowd. When Henry Ward Beecher appeared on the main stand he was vigorously cheered. The rain had ceased and the crowd was comfortable and enthusiastic. Mr. Beecher was accompanied by his wife and Mrs. W. C. Beecher. When Louis Waldau, president of the club, presented the Plymouth pastor the cheering lasted fully two minutes. The Republican managers sought to advance to a large crowd by circulating their campaign documents. Thousands of essays on the tariff were showered upon the people from the house-tops, but they only excited shouts of derision. Mr. Beecher spoke substantially as follows:

"FELLOW CITIZENS—I am very glad to meet so many workmen. As I came from the common people and have always worked for them as well as among them, I feel it my duty and my privilege to say one single word to-day about bread and water. [Laughter.] You certainly very singularly placed if you have not heard it said that I taught that one dollar a day was enough for the workingman, and that bread and water was good enough for them. Hear the truth. When, in 1871, I rode at Falmouth through the rain and over the country, I thought it necessary to say to my friends, the working people, that they must not make too much of the bread and that the trouble was not with the workingmen any more, but with the men in the community. When the bankers were upset, the merchants breaking and merchandise going down, the common people were only meek in the universal distress, and I said: 'Wait in peace instead of rioting and fighting like men in your place and wait for the cloud to break and the trouble to disappear. And even if you can not make one dollar a day, make that, and even if you can not with that buy food that bread and water will give you all the trouble pass away. [Loud cheers.] If anybody don't believe that doctrine he is not a sane man. A great many strange things are happening. There have been a great many very large strikes in New York, but the creator is the golden banquet of this week. I have been looking for the money to pay an eye tablets and using their money to pay on the courts, upon legislators and upon the police. I have been looking for the money to pay the police, but he never would have gone so that distance."

Legal Registration. New York, Nov. 3.—Miss Laid, better known as "Mollie," of Clinton street, a bartender at Bayard and Mott streets, was arrested yesterday by detectives Reilly and Van Gredon, of the District Attorney's office, on a charge of violating the registry law. Bail in $1,000 was given by Charles W. Stevens, a butcher, of No. 10, Jones street. The woman is expected to follow today. Warrants for the arrest of over 300 persons, who are charged with registering illegally in Brooklyn and the towns of Dutchess County, have been issued and placed in the hands of the United States Marshal.

Registration in Louisiana. New Orleans, Nov. 3.—The political situation which had reached a state of dangerous bitterness, was much improved by the United States Judge Parker's decision that Federal Courts had no control over the registration, and could not strike from the books the names of 7,000 persons, claimed to be fraudulently registered. This greatly relieves the Democrats who needed every vote they are entitled to. The election will doubtless be close.

Pittsburgh Republicans. PITTSBURGH, Nov. 3.—The great daylight parade of the Republicans in this city was without doubt one of the finest political demonstrations ever witnessed in this city. The weather was so fine that it could be described. The parade moved at 11:30, and it was everywhere enthusiastically received by the crowds of townspeople and visitors from the country.

It is estimated that there were about 25,000 men in line. Clubs were present from Ohio and West Virginia and all towns and villages within a hundred miles were represented. A delegation of 100 from Cleveland was in line. There was a grand industrial display on wagons, on many of which were large at work.

Blaine En Route for Home. NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Blaine left the Fifth Avenue Hotel at 8:30 Saturday morning with Postmaster Manley and drove to the Grand Central depot, where he took the 9 o'clock train for Hartford.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 3.—Blaine passed through here at 11 o'clock Saturday on his way to Hartford. He did not leave the car. He shook hands with about 100 persons.

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 3.—Blaine and party arrived here at 12:05. They were at once greeted by a large crowd of enthusiastic men. Along the streets were nearly 10,000 spectators. The carriage, containing Blaine, Senator John C. Fremont, Chauncey N. Deane, Mayor Buckley, Harrison and Henry B. Harrison were driven to a stand in front of City Hall. Applause was given Mr. Blaine as he ascended the steps with the other gentlemen. Senator Hawley proceeded at once to introduce the candidate.

Cleveland Goes to New York. ALBANY, Nov. 3.—Cleveland quietly took his departure for New York at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. There was no demonstration of note at the depot, very few people being present. The governor was accompanied by Colonel Farnsworth. Both gentlemen occupied a private compartment in a parlor car.

Political Notes. Senator Sherman addressed a Republican political meeting in New York Friday night. Gov. L. D. Burchard, who was the expression of "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion," prints a letter saying that he meant to cast no reflection on any religion, and that he alone is responsible for his language.

A BIGAMIST'S VICTIM.

General Needs' Daughter the Unfortunate Victim of a Bigamist.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 3.—In the District Court today Judge Brill sentenced Thomas Q. McAfee, the bigamist, to three years imprisonment. McAfee was arrested in this city August 14 as the result of an old chance. On that day W. C. Lodge, at one time a prominent citizen in Duluth, was in St. Paul, and passing up Third street, saw a man in whom he thought he recognized McAfee. The latter had been the husband of Miss Anna Lodge, the victim of a bigamist. Further investigation verified Lodge's suspicions, and McAfee was arrested. Then the whole story of his perjury came out. McAfee was manager of a leading music house in Duluth, and married Miss Lodge, a highly connected young woman of that city four years ago. A year after that time McAfee deserted his wife and her infant, and embezzling several thousand dollars from his employers, fled to Paris. There he became acquainted with and gained the affection of Miss Clara Meade, daughter of the late General Meade, of the United States Army. She was then the Countess von Huttenbrock. She sailed for New York in November, 1911, with McAfee, to whom, under the name of Nigel Murray, she was married in New York. McAfee went into the insurance business in that city and lived fashionably until Lodge, brother of the deserted wife, crossed his path. McAfee was arrested, but got lighted off on a legal technicality. Then he disappeared. Several months passed, and no trace of him was found. It was at this point in the story that Lodge encountered McAfee in St. Paul. When arrested, McAfee was doing an insurance business here under the name of James N. Moore. His second wife, who came to St. Paul with McAfee, is in extremely reduced circumstances at present, being an inmate of the Home for the Friendless, while the other wife is in New York.

STAR ROUTE STEALING

Wherein the Majority and Minority Report are Made.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The printed reports on majority and minority of the Springfield Committee on Fraud in the Star Route case were made public today. The majority report, which was made public some weeks ago, said there were many contradictions in the testimony adduced, wholly irreconcilable on any point more than that of willful perjury. That there was strong and conclusive evidence against Star Route contractors, and that the public officials, showing that the Government had been defrauded out of large sums of money, and that large sums had been expended to secure in dictation and conviction on yet no person was punished. The minority admit that the Star Route frauds were stupendous and enormous and their prosecution, though successful, but they deny that want of success was due to any lack of earnestness, sincerity or ability on the part of the prosecution.

THE FIRE RECORD.

GAS EXPLOSION—$30,000.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 3.—The city had a narrow escape from another big conflagration early this morning. A gas explosion in the purifying boxes in the purifying house of the gas works was blown off. Twenty men in an adjoining room had a miraculous escape.

THE ANATOMIC SCOUTER.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The British Cholera Commission, Drs. Klein and Goldie, have made an exhaustive series of experiments at the hospitals of cholera in India, and are now preparing a report on the subject of the cholera. They differ in almost every respect from Dr. Koch, the German expert, and it is believed that their report will prove of great value to the medical profession all over the world, but will also disprove Dr. Koch's microscope. Dr. Klein is the man who, to show his contempt for Dr. Koch's theory, swallowed a number of the bacilli which Dr. Koch claims are the germs of cholera, and without any noticeable result.

A resolution was passed by the meeting demanding that the claimant should be restored to his rightful position.

He was taken from under the car in an insensible condition, and died of his injuries internally. Several other persons were slightly injured. The engineer and fireman of the colliding train escaped by jumping. It is a heavy duty under the accident occurred, and it is supposed the brakes would not hold the train.

A THRILLING CAREER.

Captured by Indians, Her Brother's Murdered and her Stolen.

OMAHA, Nov. 3.—The slayer of Mrs. Laura Soper, of Beatrice, Nebraska, with James Vance, a bandit, brings an interesting bit of frontier history. Mrs. Soper's maiden name was Laura Roper, she being the daughter of Hon. George B. Roper, of Georgia County. She was a beautiful girl of eighteen, and was engaged to a young train boss named Kelly. At that time there were no settlements west of Big Sandy, in Thayer County, except at the military posts and ranches along Uncle Sam's highway. These ranches usually consisted of a few log huts, and were surrounded with a stockade, and were from forty to fifty miles apart. Kelly started an establishment of this kind near Oak Grove, on the Little Blue, in what is now Nebraska County. On the day of the fearful Indian massacre in August, 1864, Laura was gang from Springfield, near Oak Grove, by stage. The Indians on that day made a general attack on the whites all along the traveled road from Julesburg clear east to the Big Sandy. Nearly 200 miles, bands of Cheyenne and Sioux on the little settlements simultaneously. The stage in which Laura was riding was killed.

with outlets, and the driver and other passengers killed, the girl being carried off a prisoner. She was taken to Oak Grove, where the Indians decamped. She was taken to a conversation with the chief and then killed him before her eyes. From Kelly's ranch the red devils went to the home of the Ute family. They were taken to a search for the captive, but nothing could be heard of them except when a roving scout or trapper would occasionally come in and report having seen two white women held by the Utes. Two years after the massacre the girls were found living with the Indians on the Arkansas River, in Southern Colorado, and in March, 1869, they were secured by the United States troops. They had been brutally outraged by the Indians, and suffered every indignity that could be imagined. Miss Ute was a gathering pilot, and her condition excited the soldiers so that, despite the fact that they were treating with the Indians under a flag of truce, they hunted out the devil that had driven the girl crazy and killed him on the spot. Laura Roper was taken to her home in Kansas, but she had fully recovered from the effects of the cruel treatment by the Indians. Laura married Eli Soper, a resident of Gage County, who knew her history. They lived together until last week, when, after seventeen years of peace and happiness, during which five children were born, Laura slipped out with a bold, bad butcher.

DONNA MADIXXA

Denies that She Attempted Suicide, or that She is Jealous.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 3.—Donna Madixxa, the Marcella of the Ohio Canal, was interviewed at her room in the Grand Hotel yesterday morning by a press representative in regard to the sensation published in the Cincinnati morning papers that she had had her last laudanum in a fit of jealousy of Miss Kemble, the sobriquet of the company.

The Donna said: "I took sick on the train coming here from the effects of a fall received several days ago while rehearsing on the stage. After our arrival here I went to see Dr. Reamy. He found me suffering severely with a great deal of pain and prescribed for me. I did not know how strong the medicine was and I took too much. I should, to ease the pain. I did not know what the contents were, one of which was laudanum, and I took too much. I slept very heavily that night and the next morning, but I was able to perform my part in the theater that night. There was no incident on my part to take the medicine except to ease the pain. My relations with Mr. Clayburgh have been simply that of manager and actress. He employed me some money ago to play the leading role in the 'Strange Story of Fara,' and afterwards offered me the part of Marcella in the Greco Company until the 'Strange' was ready to go out. Both he and Mr. Kendall, the associate manager, have treated me with kindly and gentlemanly consideration. There is all the difference there was prearranged made for promotion, in this sensation, or whether it was intended as an advertising dodge, I cannot say, as I do not know the mind of Mr. Clayburgh. I am a truth whatever in the statements made of my attempting to take my life, either on Mr. Clayburgh's account or any other person. I consider myself a free woman, and I am Mr. Clayburgh and myself as set forth in those statements of a libelous character, and any further attack in that direction will receive my prompt attention."

It has since been discovered that it was the intention of Atwater and Miss Adams to elope, and that they were after leaving the house. Atwater is missing.
